

I visited most of the booths such as English literature, Arabic literature, Educational booths, Magazines sections, Children education, Islamic sections, Chinese and Korean sections, some stores of educational resources. I liked the map section which was as educational resources booth. It surprised me how detailed and huge information was in a single map. For example, the seller explained the map of the location of animals which live in South America and many related information sampled in small pictures such as if the animal eats a plant there is a little picture represent the plant so it a tame animal. It is very professional map and for high educated people.